

Individual report week 2

This week has been dedicated to forming a project idea and setting up tools like Jira to work with scrum throughout the course. As a team we decided on a day which we will have our weekly meetings, which will be on Tuesdays, to check everyone is making progress in the current active sprint. We decided that each sprint will be from Sunday to Sunday. I consider the teamwork so far to be good and everyone in the group is contributing. We also formulated user stories however I consider this part to be tricky and the skills I want to develop as the project evolves is formulating good and “sliced enough” user stories. I will continue to be on time for the meetings and be active when we are doing our first ever sprint next week which probably need some reflection on what worked and what not.

I missed the team presentation due to covid which I am very sorry about but I heard the team did great.

Some goals for next week are to keep evolving as a programmer, help the team to complete our first ever sprint, forming task hopefully the SMART criteria will be of use, and being as active as possible and open minded which is also what I consider to be my primary contribution to the team deliveries.
